Kyoto University Japan

Kyoto University is undertaking a new project for internationalizing education with information communication technology. Based on our experiences with projects, we aim to design courses not only in English, but also in other languages. We are currently engaged in campus-wide discussions on the optimum balance between technology and content, and on the design of evolving multi-lingual curricula of quality. As many aspects of the project are yet to be determined, suggestions from the APRU member universities are most welcome.
