

Osaka University's New Initiatives to Promote Student Exchange

The presentation introduces new initiatives to promote student exchange by Osaka University, which offer prospects for future collaboration with APRU universities in enhancing education and research capacities. They are, among others, the participation in Erasmus Mundus joint master's program, and the inter-faculty laboratory training program for exchange students now being planned. The presentation suggests proactive collaboration in the regional academic community. Possible creation of platforms and mechanisms to address logistical issues will be discussed.
