Elma TORRES

Director
Health Safety and Environmental Management Consulting Services
Philippines

Professor Elma B. Torres is at present the Director of Health Safety and Environmental Management Consultancy Services, a local consultancy firm, after she took an early retirement in 1999 from the Faculty of the Department of Environmental and Occupational Health, University of the Philippines where she has been a member for 30 years. She has undertaken several epidemiological and environmental health research projects particularly with policy implications while she was with the University and even after her retirement. In these epidemiological studies, her central role is on exposure assessment and health policy development. She has been, on several occasions, an environmental health consultant of the Philippine Department of Health, Asian Development Bank, the World Bank and the World Health Organization-WPRO.
